Crop Declined in Texas During September, But Improved Elsewhere

STATE'S 1,070,000

Condition in Arkansas as of October 1 Placed at 60 Per Cent

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture increased Thursday its forecast of this year's cotton crop 488,000 bales above the September 1 estimate.

The Crop Reporting Board forecast a production of 11,609,000 bales, based on reported conditions the first of this month.

During September, the federal crop experts said, cotton prospects declined in Texas, but this loss was more than offset by the improvement elsewhere. "In the states adjoining the Mississippi river the crop greatly improved," they said.

The October 1 condition and indicated production by states included: Arkansas 60 per cent normal, and 1,010,000 bales.

Ginnings to October 1 in Arkansas were 630,360 bales.

Market Unaffected

Cotton traders had apparently expected the October 8 estimate of show a considerable increase, and discounted it in recent weeks—for Thursday's quotations left the price virtually unchanged. Cotton prices had been falling since shortly after the September 8 report.

New Orleans quotations Thursday showed October opening at 11.86 and closing at 11.89, with spot cotton unchanged, middling 12.30.

J. P. Womack Will Speak Here Sunday

To Discuss "Alcohol and Society" at First Methodist Church

J. P. Womack, president of Henderson State Teachers' college, Arkadelphia, will address the adult division of First Methodist church Sunday at the Sunday School hour on the subject, "Alcohol and Society."

This address is the second in a series of four Sunday school talks on the general subject, "Alcohol and Human Life," sponsored by the adult division of First Methodist church in cooperation with the plan of alcohol education for the month of October inaugurated by the Board of Christian Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

All members of the adult classes of the Sunday school, as well as other adults in the church, are urged to be present Sunday. Members of other churches interested in this subject will be welcome.

John Riley Yocom, 82, died at his home here, 317 North Main street, at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday of pneumonia. He had been ill only two days.

Mr. Yocom was one of the oldest surviving settlers of the Spring Hill community, south of Hope. He moved there with his parents and grandfather in 1861 from Greene county.

Mr. Yocom spent practically his entire life at Spring Hill, where he engaged in farming and operating a cotton gin. In recent years Mr. Yocom made his home in Hope.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at Huckabee cemetery, seven miles south of Hope on the Louisville road. The Rev. W. R. Hamilton, pastor of First Baptist church of Hope, was in charge.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Early Melver of Guernsey, Mrs. John Bartlett of Hope, and Mrs. Arrie Allen of Hope; two sons, William Yocom of Arkadelphia, and Ira Yocom of Hope.

Two sisters, Mrs. Julie Leatherwood of Dallas, and Mrs. C. D. Cox of Waldo, and a brother, B. Yocom of Waldo, also survive.

The Star has been unfair about this wet-dry issue from the beginning. Had the dry boxes been mysteriously missing the whole paper would not have been large enough to hold the headlines announcing that fact and embellished with many guesses.

But when it's the other way around, with the wet boxes gone, what do we find? No headlines in box car letters, no guesses, just a bare statement the boxes are missing and a rebash of what has been already printed many times—that N. P. O'Neal and 11 other Hempstead county citizens etc.

And in the item yesterday, the last paragraph, it is more than intimated a doubt exists as to whether the missing boxes were ever in existence at all. Such a life, such a life.

WOMEN, A TARGET

"Repeal Brought a Gold Rush," Mrs. Coolidge Says at Stuttgart

STUTTGART, Ark.—(AP)—Mrs. N. F. Coolidge of Russellville, state president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, charged Thursday "liquor interests" are waging a campaign to "Make the United States the wettest wet nation on earth with our young people and women their chief target."

She told the opening session of the Union's 58th convention that in the 40 months since repeal, "More than $8,000,000,000 have been spent in America for booze and taken out of legitimate business."

Millions for Advertising
The speaker assailed what she described as an effort to make women "whisky conscious," asserting that brewers and distillers this year are spending $25,000,000 for advertising in an "educational campaign."

"Repeal brought a gold rush of adventurers eager to get in on the ground floor of a revived industry," said Mrs. Coolidge. "The market is overcrowded and consumption, due to a new generation brought up in the prohibition era with the educational activities that brought it about, is not what they expected. In order to remedy this both the brewers of beer and the distillers of whisky feel compelled to seek new markets."

"We of the national WCTU," said Mrs. Coolidge, "met the challenge at Tulsa last June to increase our Frances E. Willard centenary fund from $500,000 as planned the year previous to the million dollar figure for a nationwide temperance education program by the most modern methods."

County Units

"Our part just now, here in Arkansas, is to multiply numbers in our organization. Doing this we are building sentiment for true temperance. We need more units from which to work on this century project of education. We need more unions in Arkansas so that at least every county seat will be represented and all our important towns."

"We must learn better to cooperate with other ready-made organizations, such as missionary societies, P. T. A. S. woman's clubs, etc., which are other expressions of organized mother-love. It will take the combined efforts of all to show up under this liquor octopus that is fast coiling its tentacles around our present civilization."

Democratic Fund Drive Nearing End

Party Donations May Be Left at Any of Four Offices in Hope

Hempstead county Democrats were well on their way Thursday toward "covering" the quota of $750 set as their share of the National Democratic Committee's Campaign Fund to re-elect President Roosevelt.

Committees have about completed the canvass of Hope business houses—but hundreds of private citizens haven't been called on.

The farmers are being canvassed by committees formed through the Hempstead County Democratic Central Committee—but hundreds of farmers, also, won't be seen by the canvassers.

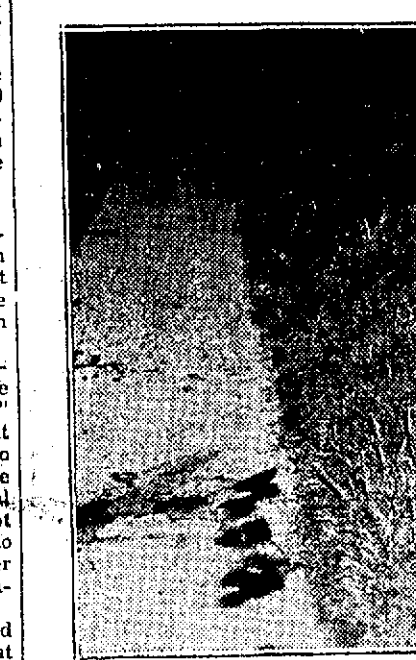

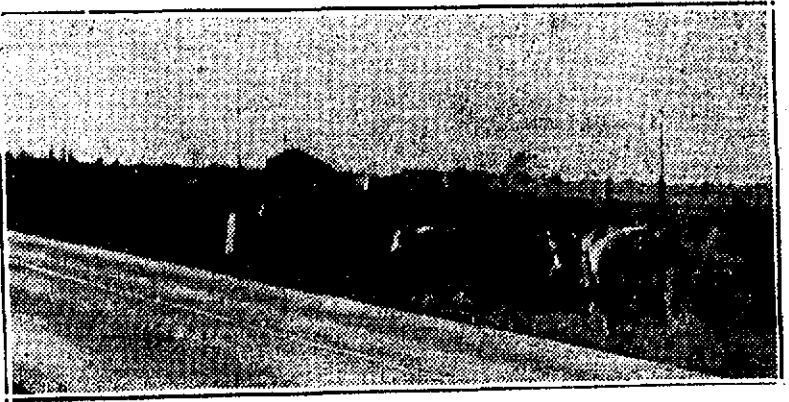

Citizens who haven't been solicited are urged to make this campaign contributions this week, as the national

Last Monday night, October 5, a light car in which a brother, L. M. Hardin of Texarkana, was carrying his sister, Mrs. C. C. Rose of Hot Springs, back home to live with him, plowed into a herd of cows on paved No. 67, killed three of the cows, wrecked the car, and injured Mrs. Rose so badly she spent the night in a Hope hospital.

The accident occurred between Sheppard and Guernsey, about two miles east of the cattle pictured at the top.

CENTER—This photograph made at 9 o'clock last Monday night shows one of the three cows killed by the Hardin car, the other two animals rolling down the bank and dying at the foot of it. Note the blood on the pavement's edge. BOTTOM—The Hardin car photographed in Early Archer's Loreco garage after the wreck. Note the shattered windshield where the occupants' heads struck it. Safety-glass prevented fatal injury, but could not save Mrs. Rose from being painfully hurt when the car struck animal-weight greater than its own.

Soviet Ultimatum Given to Fascist Allies of Rebels

Great Britain Alarmed by Near-Collapse of European Peace

APPROACH MADRID

Government's Territory Shrinks Before Advancing Fascists

By the Associated Press
An ultimatum from Soviet Russia, threatening support of Madrid unless the Spanish states new to neutrality in the Spanish civil war, gave new and grave concern Thursday to worried Europe.

Informed observers, viewing the flat Russia demand that Italy, Germany and Portugal stop their alleged military backing of Spain's insurgents, feared the collapse of the carefully-built international non-intervention agreement.

They saw the international situation surrounding war-torn Spain as entering its most serious phase.

Meanwhile, the Fascist insurgents tightened their lines around Madrid Thursday and demanded the immediate surrender of the capital under threat of destruction by bombardment from land and air.

The rebels were within striking distance of Madrid.

Madrid's weary militiamen fought on to defend their shrinking territory with unflinching stubbornness.

England Takes a Hand

LONDON, Eng.—(Copyright Associated Press)—Great Britain turned a swift diplomatic hand Thursday to patch the menacing break in the wall of European non-intervention in Spain. Stunned by the flat Russian ultimatum threatening to aid the Madrid government if Fascist states do not stop helping the insurgents, Secretary Anthony Eden broke off his holiday and turned toward home.

Russia May Intervene

MOSCOW, Russia.—(AP)—The Soviet Union Wednesday night declared it would seek again a free hand in Spain unless Portugal, Italy and Germany immediately halt military assistance to the Spanish insurgents.

The ultimatum was delivered by Moiseyevich Kagan, Soviet representative on the Non-Intervention Committee, to representatives of the signatory countries in London.

"If violations are not stopped immediately, the Soviet government will free itself from any obligations to the agreement," the ultimatum said. Kagan charged Germany, Italy and Portugal with sending arms and war planes to the insurgents in violation of the international neutrality pact which they signed.

CHAPTER I

The men on the street of the little town of Shelby winked at each other when they saw Major Meed hitching his horse and phaeton in the public square.

"The old man's going to get lit!" one prophesied.

"Yes, the Major's depending on old Dobbin to get him home tonight!"

Ordinarily Major Meed drove an ancient coupe, sitting erectly behind the steering wheel, his snow-white mustache and well-combed goatee proclaiming him, with almost bromidic picturesqueness, a gentleman of the old school. His blue eyes would twinkle and his leathery, tanned cheeks would crease in pleasant wrinkles as he called greetings to friends along the street.

"Day, Judge!" he'd quaver in his sweetly husky voice. "Mighty good fishin' weather we're havin'!" ... "Howdy there, Jim Scott! How's your sick bird dog?" ... He drove slowly and listened attentively to the answers.

To ladies he was always especially courteous, their ages mattering not at all. Though he appreciated the fresh loveliness of the younger set, he was just as gallant in greeting Miss Cassie Drew, whose beauty had withered 40 years ago in the little notion shop where she spent her days. Every woman, young or old, somehow felt herself to be prettier, more charming and interesting after Major Meed had bowed to her and inquired solicitously about her health.

But when, as today, he drove the five miles to town seated in the old phaeton behind his small bay horse, he greeted no one. He was sad and downcast, thinking of his failures. He was about to get drunk.

Katherine Meed, the Major's 21-year-old granddaughter, was also in town today. Unaware of her grandfather's whereabouts she had driven in in the family sedan and had stopped at a grocery store on Center street to do some marketing.

Coming out of the store, Katherine stood on the sidewalk, looking up at the threatening sky, holding out an experimental hand to feel for raindrops. Her brown suit was two years old but she wore it superbly, her lithe, well-built body giving it flair and distinction. A green felt hat, smart in its ageless way, was pulled over her hair. From beneath it her bronze curls escaped, giving an effect of carelessness and childish disorder. Her bronze eyes matched her hair. "Exactly," someone once said, "as if cut from the same piece of silk." The girl's eyebrows were arched but unplucked. When her wide lips parted in their quick, warm smile you saw that her teeth were brilliantly white, but not entirely even. There was about her something magnetic and natural and boyish. Something eager and intense. People called her Kate.

Heat Stroke Not Just Hot Weather Ailment; May Occur at Any Time
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

The summer of 1936 was one of the hottest on record in the United States. The number of cases of heat stroke was greater than the average.

It should be remembered that heat stroke occurs not only in extremely hot weather, but may occur at any time in factories, laundry rooms, and kitchens where people work in extreme heat associated with considerable moisture.

The symptoms of heat stroke seem to come suddenly on people outdoors because they are unaware of the effects of the heat. In most instances, the condition comes on gradually.

The person who is about to suffer a heat stroke feels weak and tired, gets dizzy and then droows. His digestion may be disturbed and he may have pain in his abdomen. Gradually he develops a fever; his pulse becomes rapid and his skin dry, hot, and flushed.

The pupils of his eyes are usually contracted or small. Associated with these symptoms is rapid and noisy breathing. In many cases of heat stroke, the pupils of the victim's eyes dilate just before death.

As I have already said in previous columns in this series, the unconsciousness of heat stroke is occasionally confused with that resulting from drugs, bleeding, diabetes, changes in blood circulation, or epilepsy.

To avoid heat stroke, keep as cool as possible. In exceedingly hot weather, wear light clothing, loose and porous. While working in an especially hot atmosphere, make certain that clothing is light, so that unnecessary heat is not retained in the body.

Taking cool baths at frequent intervals, or even washing the face and hands with cool water, will cool the body. Adequate sleep helps fortify the body for the unusual strain associated with heat.

People in a hot atmosphere will drink plenty of water because of the excessive evaporation of water from the surface of the body. They should remember, however, that this evaporation also causes the body to lose salt.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Don't Delay in Teaching Your Child Promptness.

Promptness is almost indispensable. Whatever Omar Khayyam said, or Louisa the Fourteenth, or some of the merry wits of history, about putting off until tomorrow—well, there isn't anything so maddening as the very fellow who follows them.

Now, there is a secret about doing things at once, or being there on time. That is, to do them ahead of time and to be there ahead of time.

The urgency of time must be impressed on the child, or all his life he will put things off until the last minute and maybe not then. He won't expect the world to wait. It doesn't. Time and tide won't care a whoop about him, and he is going to be left right on his corner.

Time Should Be Budgeted
I think the parceling of time quite as important as the budgeting of money. There is just so much and no more.

Don't let him start off to his music lesson five minutes late. The teacher will have to throw her whole schedule off just because he wanted to finish the defective story on the radio.

Don't struggle and scold to get him off to school on time. Make him learn to watch the clock and get there on his own. And if he doesn't show up for supper, don't save his plate. No, don't. Forget about his stomach and

HOLLYWOOD.—Only in the cinema. In Hollywood it's different. Here dimly are directors important person-rectors are respected as creators as actors. Probably not one in a hundred as well as the ordinary. Acting careers dred of the nation's average fans knows are made or broken by good or bad or-care of much about the men who jobs of direction. Great stars who look regally make pictures as he does about down their noses at the work of rival the minor character players in those stars are glad enough to visit rival studios and observe the methods of famous directors. The latter are, themselves, the best showmen in Hollywood.

Robert Z. Leonard, a former opera baritone, can be heard two stages away booming out orders in a voice that used to shake the second balcony. Tod Browning is the best story-teller; keeps his cast relaxed between shots. William Wellman is a town clown, a great gagster, and a tough talker. But he is one of the fastest and most consistently successful directors.

The quietest directors are Wesley Ruggles and King Vidor; they won't tolerate horseplay. Ruggles is a great one for dramatic intensity. Vidor is a stickler for detail of sets, lighting, costumes. After every scene he removes his gold-rimmed spectacles and gazes at the spot where the action has just taken place.

A Change-Jigger
Directors have more little personal eccentricities than are allowed most of the stars. I have mentioned Cecil B. DeMille's costumes, jewels, chair-toter, and Napoleonic manner. And nervous players are driven to the jeebies by his constant jingling of a pocketful of change. Mervyn LeRoy, who is small and alternately cherubic and sarcastic, smokes big cigars. They have made him sloop-shouldered. Ernst Lubitsch, also short and stocky, always has a big cigar in his mouth. Lubitsch is the only director with whom Marlene Dietrich likes to work. He acts more from his actors' point of view than from his own. From behind the scenes he goes through all the actions of each character, and even the facial contortions. Most of the important stars visit Lubitsch sets and watch him work.

Lang Gets Gate
Miss Dietrich and Ruth Chatterton were the most frequent visitors on the set of "Fury," which was directed by Fritz Lang. Lang also acts with his players, and is a meticulous craftsman. He was a week behind schedule in finishing his picture—although no retakes were necessary—and his contract was not renewed by M-G-M. Walter Wanger snapped him up.

About that time W. S. Van Dyke brought in "San Francisco" ahead of schedule. Van Dyke is considered one of the fastest of the topnotch directors, yet in this case more than two weeks of retakes delayed release of the picture. He was complimented.

Lang, who had done what is perhaps the most striking directorial job of the year, was fired.

Works Backward
Sidney Lanfield always carries a cane on the set. Frank Borzage holds a small bamboo stick. Borzage is the only director who ever works with his back to the set. Sometimes, weary of trying to decide what action is best, he turns away and merely listens to the voices.

William Dieterle, one of the two or three best-loved and most conscientious directors in talkietown, always wears immaculate white gloves. Sometimes glossy kid, sometimes floppyp cotton. Can't bear getting his hands dirty; or his gloves, either—changes them several times a day.

Michael Curtiz, the action specialist, works in a dirty old sweater and a heavy apron. Lloyd Bacon always wears the same ancient, shapeless hat—but below that a startlingly colorful assortment of sports clothes.

VALENTIA, Irish Free State.—(AP)—Kurt Bjorkvall, rescued near the Irish island after being forced down on a direct New York-to-Stockholm flight, sailed Thursday toward LaRocheville, France, leaving his plane in the rough sea.

Bjorkvall was rescued Wednesday by the trawler Imbrin off the westernmost point of Ireland.

The first word from the long overdue Swedish aviator, who had not been reported since he took off from Floyd Bennett Field at 7:35 a. m. Tuesday, came in a wireless message from the trawler.

"Bjorkvall saved (saved)," it said. "Valentia is an island off the western coast of Southern Ireland. Bjorkvall's flight thus ended, it was estimated, about 2,375 miles from New York and approximately 1,000 miles short of Stockholm, his goal."

In that city a huge reception had been planned for the aviator, who said before he left New York he carried with him pictures of 16-year-old Maude Dickson, a Stockholm girl, and hoped to announce their engagement.

She was waiting with his widowed mother, Mrs. Hanna Bjorkvall, in the Swedish city.

Miss Dickson said she had not "heard of any engagement," but her friends winked knowingly.

Missing Keys a Clue to Murder

Covington, Ky., Probes Death of Spinster on Eve of Marriage

COVINGTON, Ky.—(AP)— Missing keys to the home of the Brady sisters took on added significance Wednesday night as police intensified their search for the slayer of Miss Frances Marie Brady, 37. They received a report that an unidentified man had employed a Cincinnati locksmith to make a key similar to those possessed by Miss Brady's sister, Ella Celine and Margaret.

Since Miss Brady was shot and killed about 1 a. m. Friday as she stepped into the house, police had sought two keys the sisters said had been missing for many months. They expressed doubt a duplicate key had been used, however, because of the peculiar nature of the front door lock.

Almost at the hour Frances had planned to be married, a coroner's jury heard Wednesday the story of her slaying and recommended continuation of an intensive investigation.

The jury heard two sisters of the slain woman and her fiancé deprecate jealousy as the motive. The coroner's jury reported the bullet was fired "by a person or persons unknown."

Coroner James P. Riffs sent police on a hunt for a man and a woman reported seen running from the Brady home a few minutes after Frances was shot and killed by a .32 caliber bullet fired through her heart from within her home.

More mystery was added by the testimony of two patrolmen who said they found a man on the Brady lawn when they reached the house. The man, whom they were unable to describe, told them that a "man" had been shot.

Long Organization Flays Rev. Smith

Share-the-Wealth Organizer Hit by Parent Group in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)— Paul English, a "Share-the-Wealth" organizer under the late Senator Huey P. Long, said Wednesday that the Louisiana state administration "Share-the-Wealthers" leadership had repudiated the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, another national organizer under Long, who is now campaigning with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and Dr. Francis E. Townsend.

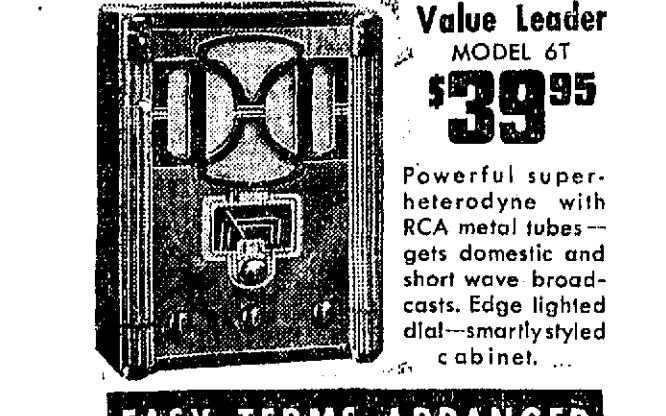

He said Gov. Richard W. Leche of Louisiana had appointed him "Share-the-Wealth" organizer for Louisiana and predicted that the "Share-the-Wealth" followers of Huey Long, who in this state would support the Leche faction and would not recognize Smith as a spokesman nor a representative of their clubs.

English said Dr. Smith forfeited his leadership of the Huey Long movement when Smith "allied himself" with the Townsend old age pension plan which Senator Long scorned. He declared that the Louisiana societies would recognize Mrs. Rose M. Long, successor to her late husband in the United States Senate, as the only national "Share-the-Wealth" leader.

The Leche state administration which was elected to office last January on the Huey Long and late Gov. O. K. Allen ticket, for months has been at odds with the Rev. Mr. Smith.

The Amazing Career of Madcap Lola.

Lola Montez, the gay dancing lady who swept across Europe and America in the 19th century like a tropic typhoon doing the dance of the seven veils, gets her innings in "Queen of Hearts" by Isaac Goldberg (John Day, $2.50).

Lola wasn't much of a dancer, it seems, but she had a way with her and she cashed in on it, in gold and in headlines.

The illegitimate offspring of a fantastic romance between a gallant young Irishman in the Queen's service and a 13-year-old Spanish girl, Lola spent six of her first 10 years at a government post in India, returning thence to England to be educated.

At 18 she eloped with Lieut. Thomas James to escape marriage to a titled old curmudgeon from India, Sir Abraham Lumley, a 60-year-old supreme court judge.

Then her mad career began. Within a few years she was separated from her young husband and making her first appearance as a dancer. For seven years she danced her way across Europe, from city to city and from court to court, loving lightly as she went.

Then, at 30, she suddenly became one of the chief political powers of the continent, as mistress and confidante of the aged King Ludwig I of Bavaria.

Until the citizens rose and threw her out, she lived and ruled like a queen. After that she lived in and on the past, touring Europe, Australia, and America; and cashing in, via the stage, on her Bavarian adventure. She died in America and is buried in Brooklyn.

Mr. Goldberg writes with knowledge, sympathy, and wit. His biography of the vivid Montez is facile, historically accurate, and vastly readable.

My heart was meant for breaking.
So what's another pain?
For one who finds a lasting song
In slanting silver rain?
Who runs to meet the morning
And reaches for the moon?
Who loves a rose like living—
Or death, should it be soon?
My heart was meant for breaking.
So what's another pain?
Just one more call for courage,
Challenge to smile again.
Oh, I shall find the courage,
And I shall own the smile;
Who then can know that heartache
Has measured every mile?

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Higginson, Mrs. R. V. Herndon Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Herndon Jr., left Thursday morning, the Herndons attending a meeting of Morticians in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Higginsons visiting with their daughter, Mrs. J. F. Brewer Jr. and Mr. Brewer in Ghent, Ky.

The Brookwood P. T. A. held its October meeting, Wednesday afternoon at the Brookwood school, with the president, Mrs. George Dodd presiding. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer in unison, followed by the minutes of the last meeting and a report from the treasurer. Mrs. B. C. Hyatt presented the following program: Mrs. Bert Webb gave a very beautiful devotional on "Our Bible." The president's message was read by Mrs. Glenn Williams. Mrs. Hyatt discussed "Our Library in the Community." Mrs. George Dodd was unanimously elected as Brookwood's representative at the state convention, convening in Hot Springs in November. The following committees were announced: Membership, Mrs. Fonyz Moses; program, Mrs. Burgher Jones; publicity, Mrs. Eugene White; hospitality, Mrs. A. W. Hicks and Mrs. R. D. Franklin; finance, Mrs. Dewey Hendrix, Mrs. Lloyd Coop, Mrs. E. L. Archer and Mrs. Frank Williams; magazine, Mrs. Cecil Weaver; council reporter, Mrs. Henry Taylor; safety, Mrs. Gordon; room mothers, Mrs. Eric O'Neil; parent education, Mrs. Leo Day; recreation, Mrs. George Warren; art, Miss Winnie Lee Floyd; social hygiene, Mrs. B. C. Hyatt; founders day, Mrs. Lloyd Coop; summer round-up, Mrs. Eric O'Neil; publication, Mrs. J. R. Williams. The dollar went to Mrs. Renfro's room, for having the greatest number of mothers present.

In resuming activities for the club year, the Bay View Reading club held a most interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gus Haynes on South Pine street with Mrs. C. M. Agas as joint hostess. The president, Mrs. E. E. White opened the meeting with a short talk, and following the singing of "Arkansas" the minutes of the last meeting and the constitution and by-laws were read by the secretary, Mrs. Fred R. Harrison. Roll call responses were "Items of Interest About Arkansas." The program chairman announced that in keeping with the centennial year, the programs for the year would be based on "Arkansas" and Mrs. T. R. Billingsley, leaders for the afternoon opened the programs with very instructive account of the Louisiana Purchase, stressing that it was the most important real estate deal of Uncle Sam's career. Mrs. Billingsley was followed by Miss Maggie Bell, who gave a very pleasing history of Hope and the surrounding towns, dwelling on the products and industries of each community. Mrs. D. B. Thompson gave some very beautiful excerpts from noted writers in regard to the scenery found in Arkansas and discussed resorts and play grounds found in each community, stressing the old camp ground closing with a tribute to the modern play grounds and improvements at the local fair park. Mrs. Ada Swisegood told of the pioneers and modern builders, giving some very interesting reminiscences in regard to the circuit riders, the pioneer doctors and lawyers. Beautiful fall flowers added their beauty to the rooms and the lace covered dining table, in keeping with the

Six Clubs Enter in Music Chorus

Clubs Meet at Mrs. John Wellborn's Studio Each Saturday Afternoon

Six home demonstration clubs are represented in the community Music Leaders' Chorus directed by Mrs. John Wellborn, WPA district music supervisor in cooperation with Miss Melva Bullington, home demonstration agent for home demonstration club members. The clubs meet with Mrs. Wellborn and Miss Bullington at Mrs. Wellborn's studio each Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. The class lasts for one hour. The first four lessons have been as follows:

1. Community Music Leaders' Chorus with emphasis on the obligations to the community of any person capable of leading in music education.
2. How to direct group singing. (a) How to start songs. (b) How to beat time. (c) Correct posture.
3. Selecting community songs.
4. Stories of familiar songs. (a) Stephens Foster melodies. (b) Patriotic songs. (c) Home songs.

On Saturday, October 10, the class will study "Why Study Music." The following clubs have been represented: Shover Springs, Green Laster, Centerville, Melrose, Allen and Rocky Mount.

Office Romance on Divorce Rocks

With the "unidentified blonde" given a star part, Mrs. Margaret Davis O'Connell (above), called Boston's best dressed woman, revealed in New York, at hearing of her plea for an increase in alimony from $35 to $500 per week, that she had entered suit for divorce from wealthy Edmund F. O'Connell, for whom she worked as stylist before their marriage.

CLUB NOTES

Blevins
Blevins Home Demonstration club met Friday, October 2, at the home of Mrs. T. J. Stewart.
Twelve members answered the roll call by naming fall vegetables in their garden.
There were three visitors present. The secretary being absent Mrs. Roy Foster called the roll and also gave the devotional, reading Deut. 16:10-11, also Deut. 26:1-11 inclusive. After which the Lord's prayer was repeated by all. "Home on the Range" was sung and a poem "The Huskers" was read by Miss Kathleen Stephens.
The demonstration was to have been on dyling but owing to a delay in the mail no material was ready so Miss Bullington talked about cleaning and dyling and making over clothes.
Achievement day, October 17, was planned for and most members agreed to contribute something for the club exhibit.
Mrs. Roy Foster in a talk to members urged them to do everything they could when called upon to try and make the club a success, and as many as many as possible could go to Hope October 17 and help with the exhibit.
There were two names added to the Blevins club at this meeting, Mrs. Eugene Stephens and Miss Dorless Houser.
The annual reports are to be filled out and handed to the secretary Mrs. H. M. Stephens Jr., at once.
Miss Houser assisted her aunt, Mrs. Stewart in serving cake and hot chocolate, after which the club adjourned to meet in November with Mrs. C. W. Levereite.

We Apologize

The past Saturday Rephan's enjoyed the biggest volume of sales since 1932. The crowds that responded to our Fall Opening Sale swept us off our feet, additional sales people were employed but were unable to take care of the vast crowds. This Saturday will find us prepared, you will be waited on promptly. We will not be caught in a lurch again. We promise plenty of sales people and apologize for last Saturday's shortage.

Bearden Praised in Highway Fight

His Efforts to Clear Highways of Livestock Bring Encouragement

Sheriff Jim Bearden's renewed fight to clear Hempstead county highways of livestock brought praise and encouragement Thursday from John W. Holman of the Protector Underwriters department of the Phoenix Insurance Co.

Mr. Holman is an agent for the company with headquarters in Texas. In a letter to Sheriff Bearden, he said:

"I am mighty glad to see the article in today's Texarkana paper where you propose to keep cattle off the highways in Hempstead county."

"I wish that every county in the state would follow suit as I know that the cattle are causing many tourists, who would spend good money in Arkansas, to be routed over other highways."

The article referred to in the Texarkana newspaper was an Associated Press dispatch sent from Hope of an article carried in Thursday's Hope Star.

Spain's Lenin Risks Neck to Rally Reds' 'Lost Cause'

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

London—"You present me with a lost battle and make me commander of all the Allied forces and expect me to rejoice," General Foch is supposed to have said to French Premier Clemenceau in 1918 when it looked as if the Germans were winning.

Largo Caballero, present boss of the "regular" government of Spain, never will be quoted to like effect, despite the fact that he became Premier of Spain just as rebels under Generals Franco and Mola had won important victories.

Don Largo will never be quoted that way, because no Clemenceau nor a Lloyd George handed him the chief-ship. He took it. When things were going badly for his crowd, he brushed aside those who were conducting affairs and took the perilous command which may mean the loss of his life if his enemies win. When dispatches tell of government officials preparing to flee a lost cause, the name of Caballero is sought in vain.

Called Spanish Lenin
Don Largo was predestined to do so. Long ago, in the early days of the republic, in the spring of 1931, when he walked along the streets of Madrid, the Madrileños would say: "There goes the Spanish Lenin of tomorrow."
They knew their Caballero. Others might weaken, others might falter, but not this stocky, smooth-faced, gray-eyed, semibald workman of 47 who looks 47. He is a dynamo of energy. Also a dynamo of hate of those who are now fighting his government. Don Largo is giving no quarters. Don Largo expects none. So far as he is concerned, it is a fight to the death. It is a thing he has visualized most of his life.

He started out as a working plasterer. He soon began to take rank in the plasterers' union, for he had the gift of gab and boundless energy. He did not spend his night in pleasant Madrid taverns, sipping sherry and smoking endless cigarettes. He burned the midnight oil educating himself. Then he soaked up on Marx and other Socialist and revolutionary writers. He soon became head of the plasterers' union in Madrid and also of the Socialist party in the Spanish capital.

He attacked against King Alfonso XIII and was rewarded with a long sentence of imprisonment. He was pardoned, as were other political agitators. He went right back to his attacks on the monarchy. Again in prison, he found himself a cell-mate of Lawyer Alcalá Zamora, destined to be the first President of the Spanish republic. Even while in prison, Zamora, Caballero and others signed a manifesto against Alfonso and Dictator Primo de Rivera.

When Alfonso fled and the republic was founded in 1931, Caballero entered the first cabinet as Minister of Labor. He drew up drastic reform laws, some of which were passed by the Cortes. It was then he began to be known as the future Spanish Lenin. The government of which he was a part did not act quickly enough or radically enough to suit him. He saw the unrest in the masses. He said caustically: "You can't appease a volcano by dropping sedative pills down the crater."

He had the shock of his life when the country swung to the Right in the Cortes election of 1934. Armed revolt of the Leftists broke out in various parts of Spain, particularly in the mining region of the Asturias. Just as the rebels of the Right are now employing as their best shock troops Moslem Moors and reckless adventurers gathered in the Spanish Foreign Legion, so in 1934 the government of the Right used those same Moors and Foreign Legionnaires to conquer the striking armed miners of the Asturias. Then, as now, accusations were made on both sides of shocking cruelties and atrocities.

The revolt was suppressed. Many Leftists were arrested, including Caballero. But he was acquitted of the charges of instigating an armed revolt. The last election was won by the Popular Front—a combination of all the forces of the Left. Caballero and his friends tolerated a government in which they did not take part. Now he is the government, sitting in Madrid. If he wins, he will be ruthless. If he loses, he will probably pay for it with his life—and expects to.

When Girls Are Peddling Lavender

By Helen Welshimer

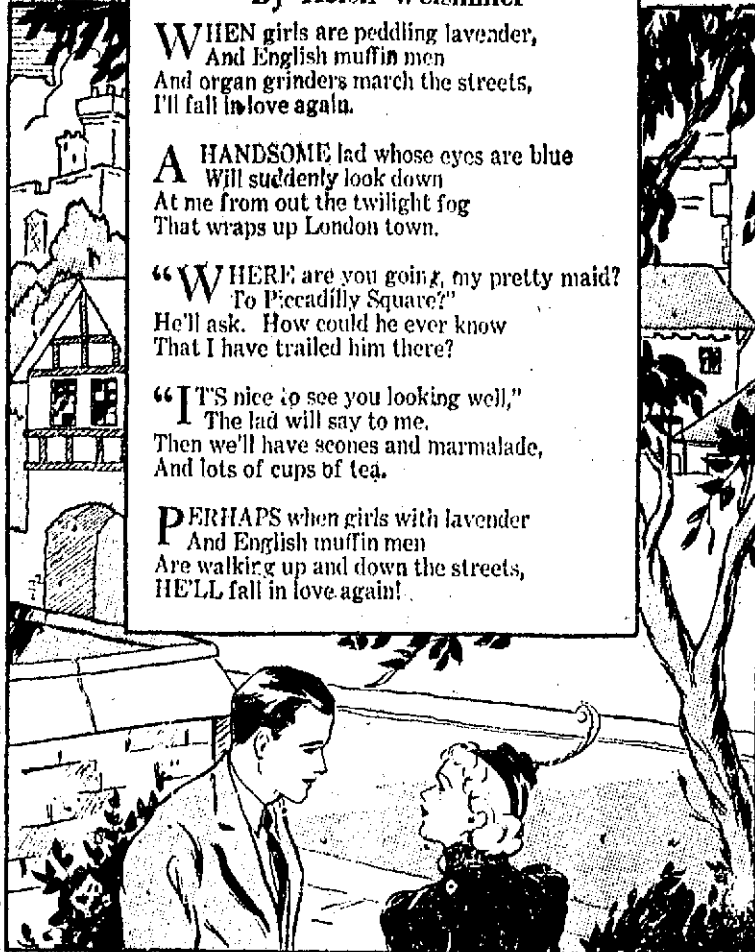

WHEN girls are peddling lavender,
And English muffin men
And organ grinders march the streets,
I'll fall in love again.

A HANDSOME lad whose eyes are blue
Will suddenly look down
At me from out the twilight fog
That wraps up London town.

"WHERE are you going, my pretty maid?
To Piccadilly Square?"
He'll ask. How could he ever know
That I have trailed him there?

"IT'S nice to see you looking well,"
The lad will say to me.
Then we'll have scones and marmalade,
And lots of cups of tea.

PERHAPS when girls with lavender
And English muffin men
Are walking up and down the streets,
HELL fall in love again!

seven pound daughter. The little lady has been named Frances Pauline.

Ward Stephens of Grand Rapids, Michigan was a week end guest of Mrs. Lee Holt and Miss Kathryn Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Corry, Miss Mattie Corry, Mrs. E. R. Timberlake and Evelyn Timberlake spent Wednesday of last week visiting their aunt Mrs. J. W. Stanfield of Texarkana, Texas.

Mrs. E. R. Timberlake, Roscoe and Evelyn Timberlake accompanied Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Corry on a visit to their sister Mrs. Walter McDowell of Ringgold, La. Miss Mattie Corry returned with them to their home. While in Louisiana Mr. Corry, who is a U. S. Army engineer, received orders for an immediate transfer to Boston, Mass. He and Mrs. Corry left Saturday, making the trip overland.

Little Miss Evelyn Ann May celebrated her 11th birthday last Wednesday with a party which was attended by the following friends and playmates: Ruth Alice Anderson, Elizabeth Page, Grace Childers, Nell Jean Byers, Edna Lovells, Doris Parsons, Gladys Martin, Bettie Sue Levins, William Paul and Buddy Rowe, Smith Moses, George Saunders, Henry Gray Bearden, Charles William Dudley, D. H. Snedley, Bobby Conway and Jimmy and Evelyn Ann May.

The Methodist Women's Missionary Society met at the church Monday afternoon where Mr. J. F. Dugger conducted a very interesting study of the new mission study book, "A Preface to Racial Understanding." Others who had parts on the program were Mrs. R. W. Patterson, Mrs. O. T. Beck, Mrs. J. L. Williams and Mrs. E. R. Timberlake. During the winter the meetings will be held at 2:30. All Methodist women are urged to attend these meetings.

Pet Anteiope Is Customs "Guard"

When Shepherd Dog Dies
His Anteiope Pal Carries on Job

CORWINE CENTER, Mont.—(AP)—"Slim," an anteiope with goat-like proclivities has become a self-appointed "watchdog" at the U. S. customs office here.

When "Pal," shepherd dog and constant companion of the pet anteiope, died, the 100-pound, year and a half old animal took over the job voluntarily.

Strangers stand the chance of getting attempt to enter the customs station. The practical way, customs officials butt out into the street when cers says, is to "bulldog" the animal like a steer.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. Then poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, numbness, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

WOMAN WRITER WHO SHOCKED PEOPLE

THE elder peasants of the rustic village of Nuoro, on the island of Sardinia, were shocked. Women shook their heads in mournful silence, and went to the parents of Grazia Deledda to offer their condolences. That woman should be discovered writing! It was unbelievable, almost sacrilegious.

But this woman was soon to learn of her genius and be proud of it instead. For Grazia De-ledda became one of the foremost women novelists in the world. Educated and confined during early years to her own little island home, Deledda became a self-made woman.

Then, when she began writing, she soon was recognized by the literary world. Recently she died, at the age of 84, author of 28
novels, many short stories and a play.
In 1926 she was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature.

Not Italy,
but Turkey honored her in 1935 when her portrait was included in a special series of stamps picturing women
Nobel prize winners. Her stamp is shown here.

No Meeting Held Wednesday Because of Death of J. R. Yocom

No meeting was held at the Hope Baptist Tabernacle, North Main street, Wednesday night due to the fact that Mr. J. R. Yocom, who has lived next door to the church, passed away.

Pastor Bert Webb announces that the sermon Dr. Klink was to deliver Wednesday night on "The Anti-Christ Who is He?" will be preached Saturday night instead, and the subject for Thursday night, "The Mark of the Beast" remains the same as does the one for Friday night, "The Five Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Dr. Klink speaks to the local Rotary club at its noon luncheon Friday at Hotel Barlow.

Itemizing Broadway Notables

NEW YORK.—Columbian Chaff: No beleaguered money magnate is John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Daily and promptly at 9:15 in the morning does he arrive at his Radio City studios.

I wonder what ever became of the midget who sat upon J. P. Morgan's knee?

Strollers are accustomed to seeing Sylvia Sidney sauntering the side streets... the truth is that she is trying to lose surplus avoirdupois.

Fatsy Ruth Miller, the silent siren, will attempt the "comeback" on the Broadway stage this season. She has been engaged to play a "high yaller gal" in the melodrama, "White Man."

Helen Hayes, who continues triumphant as "Victoria Regina," had a rare attack of stage fright the other night... when she learned that a genuine

VULTURES ARE THE HIGHEST FLYERS OF ALL BIRDS, YET THEY HAVE THE LOWEST AND MOST OBNOXIOUS TASTES.

ON THE ISLAND OF MALTA, 500 METEORS PER MINUTE WERE COUNTED DURING THE GREAT METEOR SHOWER OF OCTOBER 9, 1933.

ORDINARILY, one can see only a dozen or less meteors on a clear night, but on the night of Oct. 9, 1933, the earth passed through a swarm of these small particles, each of which became white hot due to friction caused by the earth's atmosphere.

So They Say

Working girls in Europe never cross their legs. They're very poor, so if they crossed their legs you would be able to see the holes in the bottom of their shoes.—Sander Frankfort, Hungarian author.

Public enemy No. 1 is old man politics. Too many times the local officer finds the handcuffs on himself, instead of on the criminal, because of political influence.—J. Edgar Hoover, G-Man chief.

Ships are material gestures toward disarmament, for we have learned that disarmament follows, not precedes, security.—Vice Admiral Sir Matthew Best, British navy.

We have been too long in the wild Indian stage, willing to scalp the land and leave it a red horror.—President Isaiah Bowman, Johns Hopkins University, urging conservation of water as drought remedy.

Southwestern girls have what our 42nd Street hoofers get out of powder boxes: healthy sun tan with just a few freckles.—John Murray Anderson, dance director.

Oatmeal Choice of Quins' Specialists

Oatmeal With Milk Contains Body-Building Minerals, Experts Say

These five little wards of the Canadian Government, the Dionne Quins, had but a feeble chance for survival that night of May 28, 1934. Today they are five healthy, robust youngsters—miraculous tributes to the skill and scientific knowledge of the medical experts who have watched over them since birth. To these experts, the Quins' diets have ever been a matter of prime importance. It is interesting to note, then, that the Dionne Quins eat oatmeal every day.

In Oatmeal, Nature has stored a rich supply of Vitamin B, the precious element that protects young and old, alike, against nervousness, constipation, poor appetite, due to lack of sufficient Vitamin B in the diet. Thus, a daily bowl of oatmeal helps provide protection against three of the worst enemies of children. Moreover, oatmeal with milk is full of body-building minerals, muscle-building protein, energy-making carbohydrates. It's easy to see why the Dionne Quins are thriving on Quaker Oats.

According to statistics, clerks pay their bills more promptly than persons in other occupations.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Sign

A cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. You can relieve them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the infected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Medical authorities have for many years recognized the wonderful effects of Beechwood Creosote for treating coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A chemist worked out a special process of blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children. Thousands of families and practice, and Creomulsion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the infected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Creomulsion is guaranteed factory in the treatment of chest colds and bronchial irritations. Get a bottle of Creomulsion now from your druggist, up as directed and if you fail to get satisfactory relief, he is to refund every cent of your purchase price. Get Creomulsion right now.

Queen Victoria, the former Queen of Spain, was among those in the audience. Norman Bel Geddes spent 2000 the other afternoon getting sound effects of a steel construction job in the Bronx... as atmosphere for his new play, "Iron Man." Vincent Lopez is back in the chips... all because of those silly "knock-knocks" he introduced in a song. Beards No Disgrace Often they are the cognoscenti-spotted from afar by their hirsute adornments. In the actor's division, all know from a distance of 80 paces that only Monty Woolley, the musician and ex-Yale professor, sports a trimmed beard. Among the Broadway producers—active and inactive—Daniel Frehman bears the sole surviving chin curls and in the critics' division, Ernest Boyd wears the beard for the crowd. Now Tony, who keeps saloon for stage luminaries on Fifty-second Street, has revealed a stubbled fair about his face that gives him the regal resemblance to Haile Selassie.

Pool Payments to Begin This Friday

Checks to Be Delivered First Day at Patmos and Spring Hill

Checks covering the 1935 National Surplus Cotton Tax-Exemption Certificate Pool sale will be distributed this week and next, County Agent W. E. Mountcastle said Thursday. Checks will be delivered Friday at Spring Hill and at Patmos, Mr. Mountcastle said. Following is the schedule: Friday, October 9—8:00-12:00 Spring Hill, 1:00-5:00 Patmos. Saturday, October 10—8:00-11:00 De Ann, 11:30-2:30 Beard's Chapel, 3:00-5:00 Piney Grove. Monday, October 12—8-9:30 Guernsey, 10:00-12:00 Fulton, 1:00-2:00 Saratoga, 2:30-5:00 Columbus. Wednesday, October 14—8:00-11:00 Sardis (Minerbrook township), 1:00-5:00 Bingen. Thursday, October 15—8:00-12:00 Blovinis, 1:00-5:00 McCaskill. No checks will be distributed at the city hall or any other place or time other than listed above. After Thursday, October 15, all checks not delivered in the county can be received by calling at the county agent's office, city hall, Hope.

Everyone is urged to advise as many as possible of the days and dates of distribution of checks in their Township so as many as can be served on the rounds as possible.

out a cigar in his mouth. Phil Baker's notion of solitary fun is roaming the East Side Ghetto and bargaining with pushcart peddlers... But he buys.

When Jean Blondell and Dick Powell step off the trans-Atlantic boat, the first one to greet them will be Joan's sister, Gloria... who was escorted by the pulse-hastening Powell long before he courted her older sister. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney doesn't like to be hemmed in when she stays in New York... her suite at the Hotel St. Moritz numbers 8 rooms.

Youngest star-playwright of two countries is Emily Williams who wrote and acts in "Night Must Fall," the new Broadway play. He wrote a London success when he was 19.

Giants' Pastime

Entirely irrelevant, but thus do columnists items couquette. Most of the New York Giants live in the same apartment house near the Polo Grounds. Not because they like to walk to work but because a majority of them are bridge fiends. For years Ethel Barrymore would not allow another actress to use the star dressing room in the theater that is named for her.

The ban has been lifted now that the Stage's First Lady has retired. Hat check girls in the niteries divvy any tip of $5 or over with their employers—the concessionaries. Any sum under $5 goes to the boss... As for the lovely lady in the cloakroom, her average pay envelope contains $22.50.

No figure as sweet as Constance Bennett's... She has been in town hovering close to other Hollywood dictator, Nicholas Schenck, who may employ her talents in pictures. The biggest money-making venture on Broadway at the moment is a chromium-plated filigreed, gargantuan 5 & 10 Cent store.

Spici-Binder

Night Scene: The shrewd spicler set himself upon a soapbox in Columbus Circle (the Hyde Park of Manhattan), made phony passes with his hands to attract attention, railed away against Rooseveltian ananias, condemned London cure-alls for government, berated Lemke, thrashed Browder verbally, vituperated Thomas and spent lung power on other political pros and cons. Then he spoke passionately for the upholding and safeguarding of the American constitution, opened a satchel, produced his Indian herbs and delivered a discourse upon the intricacies of the intestine. By this time his crowd, grown to large proportions, saw no further reason for being argumentative and scattered.
